

Attraction in Action

When we intend for it to rain, instead of talking about how dry it is,
we envision it raining.

When we intend that we are happy and healthy, instead of telling everyone our problems,
we envision ourself happy and well.

When we intend that we are abundant, instead of telling everyone about our hard times,
we envision having enough to spare and share.

When we intend for fair and honest leadership, instead of obsessing on poor politics,
we see our elders standing for the Highest Good.

When we see things in a favorable light, we're no longer reinforcing our own problems;
we're no longer complicit in our own suffering.

And when we see things in their brightest light, we put the Law of Attraction to its highest and best use;
we marry the Law and the Highest Good together.

Tony Burroughs

-from The Highest Good Handbook